

Charles Louis Gamache, 43, With CIA for 12 Years

CPYRIGHT

Charles Louis Gamache, 43, a Central Intelligence Agency employee for 12 years, died yesterday at George Washington University Hospital after a heart attack.

A native of Utica, N. Y., Mr. Gamache moved to the Washington area in 1946. Before joining the CIA, he worked as service manager for the Iron Fireman Co.

He was graduated from the Utica School of Commerce and spent three years in the Air Force during World War II.

Mr. Gamache was a member of the Father Rosensteel Council of the Knights of Columbus, the Third Order of St. Francis and the Holy Name Society of St. Catherine Laboure Church in Wheaton.

He leaves his wife Marian and three children, Earl, Melanie and Kenneth, of 716 Cabin John parkway, Rockville, the home address; a sister, Mrs. Bernadette Peters; three brothers, Earl, Norman and Archie, and his mother, Mrs. Victoria Gamache, all of Utica.

Services will be at 10 p.m. Friday at St. Catherine Laboure Church in Wheaton, with burial in Gate of Heaven Cemetery.